Cable Industry News

Moody's Investor Service has reported that the rate of cable operators' loss of video subscribers and increase in broadband subscribers has slowed down.

Thirty percent of pay TV subscribers would like to cut the cord but are unaware of the amount of live sports and other programming available through streaming services. Eighty percent say that cost would be the primary reason to drop their pay TV service.

Communication

Commissioners were provided copies of letters from its contractors requesting renewal of their agreements for 2019, with any possible revisions to be discussed by the parties.

Commission Assistance to Residents

The Commission worked with West Bloomfield Township Code Enforcement regarding the replacement of damaged AT&T infrastructure at the corner of Maple and Wyndham Boulevard.

The Commission responded to an inquiry communicated through the web site regarding data limits for Comcast internet service, informing the resident that local communities have no jurisdiction over broadband and that concerns should be communicated to the Federal Communications Commission and the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Preview

The Executive Director presented his agenda for the time period between this meeting and the next.

Mrs. Macon stated that she is delighted that the Commission Operations and Strategic Planning Committee will be discussing the bylaws. In response to her question regarding the posting of the Commission's semi-annual reports to the communities, the Executive Director stated that they are included on the web site. She added that Commission assistance to residents could be a part of the site's FAQ page.

Mrs. Macon also mentioned a recent "Consumer Reports" article on cord-cutting.

9. Unfinished Business

No items of Unfinished Business were presented.
